as we see it

Do you still need proof that television is a business? Take a look at NBC's announcement of a new $100,000 quiz show—The Big Surprise. The announcement followed, by days, NBC spokesmen's public insistence that they were not planning big-money giveaways to compete with CBS' The $64,000 Question.

The programming trend at NBC has been one of television's most encouraging aspects in the past few years. Today, Home and Tonight were started as programs designed specifically for the visual medium. "Spectaculars," despite the pomposity of the word, offered viewers king-size packages of quality entertainment. And only recently the network's president, Sylvester (Pat) Weaver explained an "enlightenment" project.

How does a $100,000-jackpot quiz show fit in with this onward-and-upward-with-the-arts campaign? It doesn't. At best, quiz shows with big prizes offer suspense and excitement to viewers. They're fun to watch, but they certainly don't add anything to television's stature.

Still, NBC is in business to make money. If CBS comes up with a dandy formula for capturing audiences and sponsors, NBC can't afford to stand by and adopt a holier-than-thou attitude in the matter.

We now seem to be in for a cycle of huge-money prize shows. Actually, such shows are less expensive for sponsors than many of the weekly situation comedies on the air. And that makes them good business.

But, let's hope all the progress that's been made recently in programming isn't forgotten as the new jackpot cycle starts. A few quiz shows are fine; too many of them could make television an awful bore.

NEW YORK Bob Stahl reports:

On NBC's new quiz, The Big Surprise, person who submits name of someone about to receive a big surprise (which show telecasts) gets crack at $25,000-$100,000 riddle. If he misses, a "brain" machine selects, from description he feeds into it, the name of some member of home audience, who then gets a chance via phone.

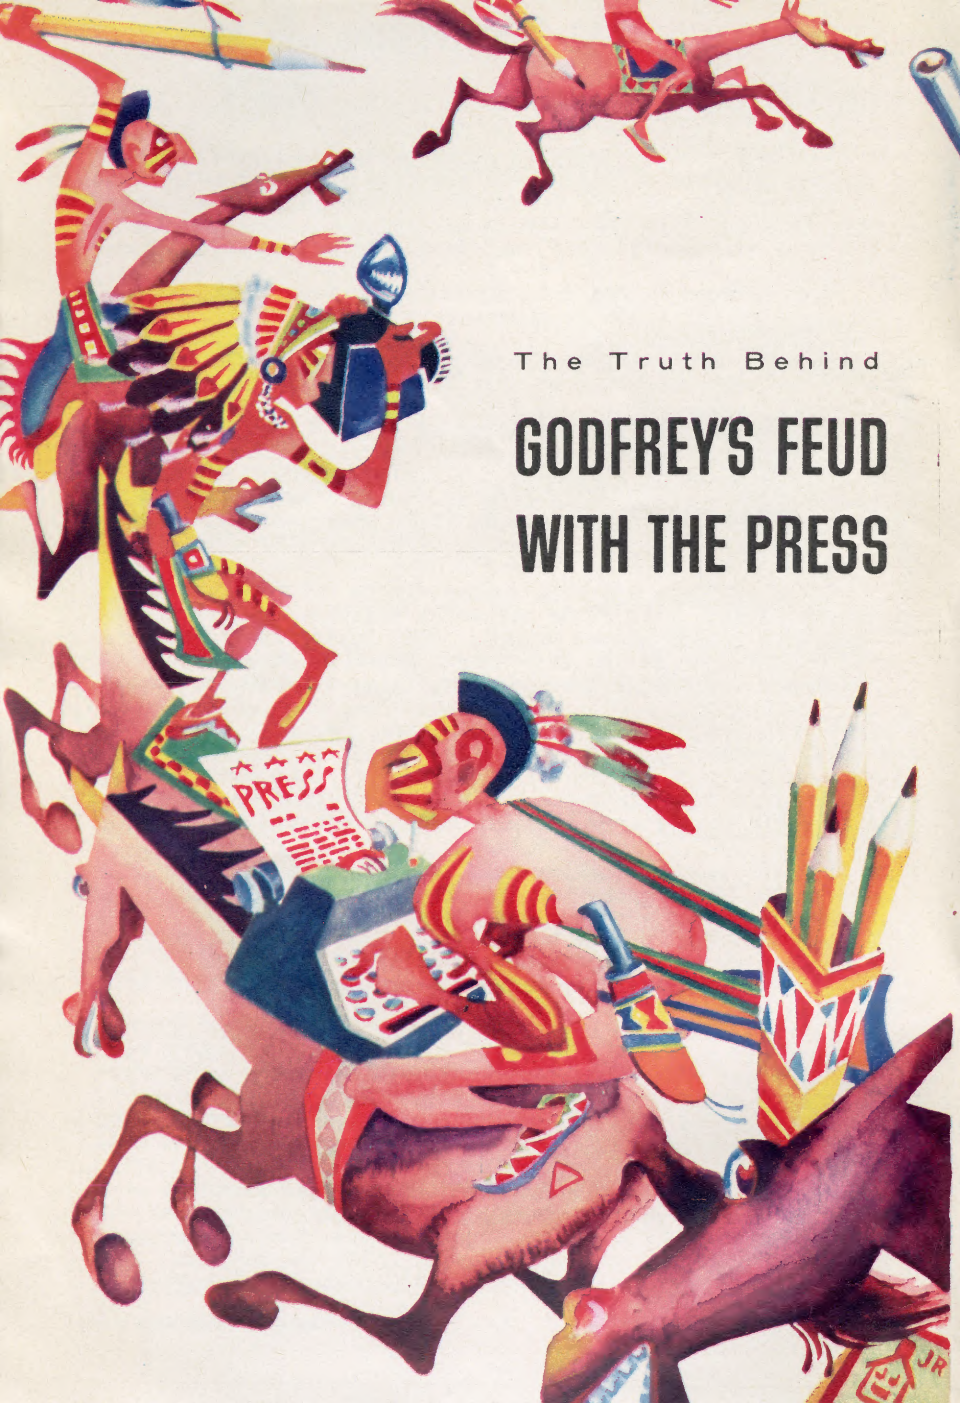
Looks like there will be some professional football televised nationally, after all. ABC will carry games played by the Chicago Bears and Cardinals Sunday afternoons from Oct. 2 through Dec. 11. Also the Detroit Lions-Green Bay Packers game from Detroit on Thanksgiving.



The Truth Behind

GODFREY'S FEUD WITH THE PRESS

First of Two Articles

The Decline and Fall of Arthur Godfrey in the esteem of newspapermen has been one of the most startling reversals in television's brief history.

Only two years ago Godfrey was virtually enshrined by the press. At the time of his hip operation in May, 1953, even the fact he tied a shoelace was recorded in respectful tones.

Newspapers printed adulatory columns and sentimental editorial cartoons. And this was a lead editorial appearing in the New York Daily News:

BE SEEING YOU, ARTHUR

Just want to wish Arthur Godfrey the best of luck and then some, in his forthcoming hospital hitch.

So great was the veneration displayed by the press that a trade magazine, Broadcasting-Telecasting, was moved to observe: "The deification of Arthur Godfrey has been in process for some time, but his triumph over illness and the opportunities it made for the CBS publicity factory have rendered it complete. It is only a matter of time until the second syllable of 'Godfrey' will be forgotten."

And then, in the course of just a few months, the entire picture changed.

First, on October 19, 1953, came the on-the-air firing—for lack of "humility"—of one of Godfrey's "Friends," Julius La Rosa. The newspaper keynote was Disillusionment.

Wrote Ben Gross in the New York Daily News: "There's no star who can't be replaced—and forgotten . . . The Great Godfrey legend has been deflated!"

And Jack Gould in the New York Times: "The carefully nurtured illusion that his supporting company was one happy family has lost some of its luster. What always has been common knowledge in the trade is now public knowledge: Mr. Godfrey likes his own way and is decidedly the stern master of his own household."

And Terrence O'Flaherty in the San Francisco Chronicle: "Unfortunately for a well-preserved myth, the La Rosa situation has shown Arthur Godfrey is a small man in a very big job."

And Washington TV columnist Bernie Harrison, a Godfrey admirer since his Washington disc jockey days: "Anyone can pick the wrong word and Arthur certainly continued picked a beauty in 'humility.' But Arthur's insistence that he had a perfect right to fire La Rosa on the air because he hired him on the air seems to me to be his grandest blunder."

And syndicated columnist John Crosby: "The Godfrey show is one big happy—(happy my eye!)—family and once you become a little Godfrey, you got to stay home and bring the master his pipe and slippers . . . Of all the people in the world I'd pick as being least aware of the meaning of humility, Godfrey is way up at the top of the list, jostling Jackie Gleason and Milton Berle."

Even International News Service columnist Jack O'Brian, who had long been one of Godfrey's most avid drum-beaters, sadly termed the La Rosa firing "unfortunate reasoning or whim."

Godfrey's often contradictory explanations—that La Rosa had asked for his release; that he wanted to help the young singer increase his earnings; that lack of air time had cut short a big send-off—failed to convince New York newspapermen.

Wrote Theo Wilson in the News: "Arthur Godfrey, who can sell anything from tea to soup, put on a two-hour unrehearsed program yesterday in which he sold 'The Godfrey Story' to an audience of newspapermen invited to his sixth floor inner sanctum."

And Robert Williams in the Post: "Arthur Godfrey, who gave the sack to crooner Julius La Rosa . . . appeared to be holding one today as the knocks continued to pour in."

And Fern Marja, in the same paper: "Of thousands of letters . . . an absurdly small percentage backed Godfrey and his whim of iron."

However, no matter what the newspapermen wrote, a huge and loyal legion of admirers has never swerved in its devotion to Godfrey, and has met every derogatory comment in the press with letters and phone calls of protest.

Just when the public pressure was beginning to ease on Godfrey, came the Teterboro Airport "buzzing" incident, which for six months cost him his pilot's license. Godfrey attempted to make light of the whole affair. On his morning show, he held up a newspaper and said: "Boy, did you see that? Ain't that a beaut? . . . I never thought I'd get headlines like that until I was dead . . . 'Godfrey Cited As Wild Flier. Port Authority Files Charge.' Roop-di-doo-dee rocky woe!"

Newspapermen didn't share his jollity. Columnist Ed Sullivan, a fellow CBS television star, wrote angrily: "The flippancies of Arthur Godfrey, in answering charges of reckless operation of his DC-3 . . . are shocking. Godfrey is 50 years old—hardly the age for a hot-rodder . . . Such fliers are as dangerous as a drunk with a loaded gun."

Martin Kivel, in the News, referred to Godfrey as a "television entertainer, second only to Captain Video as TV's most daring pilot." And the Philadelphia Inquirer observed editorially, "Godfrey's reactions have been those of an immature person . . . Humility has its place, and it need not be

Godfrey Attacked and Defended For His Dismissal of La Rosa

Godfrey Is Baffled By 'Fuss' Over Firings

NEW YORK (AP).—Arthur Godfrey today spread his arms as if baffled and said he was amazed by all the "fuss." "The last time," he said, "they complained they didn't like confined to Godfrey underlings."

Godfrey again suffered a bad press last December, when Larry Puck was dropped as producer of Godfrey's Wednesday night show, reportedly because Puck was planning to marry Marion Marlowe—a report Godfrey emphatically denied. And in April the wholesale dismissal of Miss Marlowe, Haleloke, The Mariners and three writers loosed still another torrent on Godfrey's greying red head.

"Working for Arthur Godfrey these days," Ben Gross mused, "is about as risky as being a commissar in Moscow." And Jack Gould felt that "Arthur Godfrey has chosen an odd way to start his comeback. His decision to plow under a few of the little Godfreys is no surprise, but the form of his spring housecleaning would seem to suggest that he is neither the most tidy nor tactful soul in television."

(There has been an occasional breach in this solid wall of anti-Godfreyism. Washington's Bernie Harrison, for instance, commented: "What's all the fuss about? He tried to handle the dismissals properly this time, with a CBS official by his side . . He was eminently correct in his procedure, heartless as it might seem. The wonder, to me, is that he didn't axe some of his performers long ago.")

No man to run from a fight, Godfrey has done his share of "dishing it out." He has countered newspaper comment with a barrage of choice invectives. Among them: "Dope!" (for Ed Sullivan.) "Liar!" (or words to that effect, for columnist-What's My Line panelist Dorothy Kilgallen and for columnist Danton Walker.) "Fatuous ass!" (for John Crosby.) "These jerk newspapermen!" and "Muckrakers!" (for all and sundry.)

On a recent radio broadcast, he labeled most news stories about himself as "pure canard, pure manufactured lies, no basis in fact at all. It really amuses me what people do to try to make headlines . . . I don't give a—(pause)—what they print!"

Just after the "buzzing" incident, Godfrey told Frank Parker on the air: "I've learned the hard way . . . Nothing. I tell them (reporters and photographers) nothing. That's the only thing you can do. If you say anything to them whatsoever, they'll foul it up."

Yet, some time earlier, Godfrey announced gleefully: "Anything I love to do, it's cross up a newspaper."

Ironically, the same Arthur Godfrey credits a newspaperman with catapulting him to fame and fortune. Columnist Walter Winchell heard an all-night Godfrey broadcast when Godfrey's future looked bleak.

"He had some celebrities with him," Godfrey recalled years later, ". . . including Billy Rose, Ben Bernie, Ruth Etting and Jimmy Cannon. He asked me to kid Ben Bernie. Next day he had a swell plug for me in his column. Then he put more plugs in and I got 30 offers from Broadway. Put down January 26, 1934, as the luckiest day in my life and Walter Winchell as the guy who made it that way."

Garry Moore Selects Girls Who Are TOPS

On The East Coast

Judy Tyler is a vivacious girl whose great big voice can "sell" any song. She came to television from featured roles in five Broadway musicals and delighted children of all ages with her "Princess Summerfall Winterspring" on Howdy Doody Time. In addition to playing dramatic leads, she has appeared with Bob Hope and Sid Caesar—and has even been "straight man" for Milton Berle. Her future looks bright.

Sarah Meade found her way to television via the theater in Europe, where she spent four years acting with the American Theater in Paris and the Gaiety Theater in Dublin. Her performance in "The Women" on TV last season focused attention on her acting ability, and casting directors started beating a path to her door. This season will see her concentrating her efforts on television—successfully, no doubt.

Joan de Marrais, a graduate of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, with a background of 15 Broadway and off-Broadway shows, came to the fore this past year with her display of lyric acting, her ability to create the illusion of beauty and maintain complete dignity in difficult parts. She wants to do some comedy and also hopes for a chance to prove that she has dancing as well as dramatic ability.

Deirdre Owens has a solid Little Theater and Broadway background packed into her 22 years. This past season, she scored in five Kraft Theater performances, on The General Electric Theater (with Wally Cox) and on Studio One. Her varied roles ranged from a 16-year-old school girl to a gray-haired teacher. She is a hard-working, dedicated actress who has mastered her craft. You will hear more of her.

Sally Jessup is a pert young lady who started life as a painter but soon switched to acting as a career, chalking up appearances on many of the top dramatic programs telecast from New York City. She has genuinely fine talent, combined with a rare beauty. A serious student of the drama, she learns quickly. She's definitely on her way up, and still wants to add musical comedy to her accomplishments.

Betty Ann Grove, who came up in television on the Stop the Music show and then went to Broadway for the hit show, "Kiss Me, Kate," has really blossomed out on The Big Payoff as one of television's hottest singers. Her voice has a warm and wholesome quality which makes her a big favorite with both teen-agers and mature audiences. Her personality is just another guarantee that she'll hit the very top.

Now you can join the Navy and see—TV! Navy personnel have used recreational funds to equip nearly 95 percent of all ships—even submarines and tugs—with TV. With good reception up to 40-50 miles from shore, TV gets almost round-the-clock attention from off-duty sailors. Late movies draw largest crowds.

Dorothy, No Dumb Blonde, Adorns 'Pantomime Quiz'

Dorothy Hart, the beauteous blonde who adds glamor to the charade panel on TV's Pantomime Quiz, pleads a problem. She has trouble convincing one and all that's she's as young as she seems. And all because a movie in which she starred is now making the rounds on television's Late Late Shows.

"Everybody is convinced that all TV movies must be at least 10 years old," Dorothy wailed. "So how can I convince them that the one—'Loan Shark,' with George Raft—they saw me in just the other night was completed in 1952, only three years ago?"

Despite her youth, Dorothy has had a long career as model, actress and panelist. She was also an oral surgeon's assistant in her native Cleveland, and winner of a Columbia Pictures "National Cinderella Cover Girl" contest.

Dorothy, though beautiful, is not dumb: she finished college in two-and-a-half years "because I wanted to get to Broadway before I was too old." She appeared in some 20 movies, playing good girls, bad girls and even Western heroines. She has also starred in many live TV drama shows and in several telefilms. As for panel work, she previously served a stint on both Take a Guess and I'll Buy That.

Dorothy was married last February to Fred Pittera, a bright young man who stages those big industrial extravaganzas, such as sports shows and home shows. They live in one of Manhattan's luxurious apartment buildings.

Philadelphia Dateline

Football fans are in for a bonus this fall. Ch. 12 will carry six Baltimore Colts National Football League games starting with the Chicago Cards contest, Saturday night, Sept. 10. This is in addition to coverage of Philadelphia Eagles away games on Ch. 6.

George Munger, former Penn football coach, has signed with Ch. 12 to do a weekly grid show.

When that huge oil refinery in Whiting, Ind., was rocked by an explosion recently, Ch. 6's Mary Dorr found herself right on top of it. Returning by plane from a western vacation with her husband, mother and three children, their craft was about 1500 feet above Whiting when the blast struck. They flew through dense smoke for five minutes before learning the cause.

Ch. 10's monopoly of golfing honors in local TV circles will be at stake in the 3d annual TV GUIDE links tourney, Friday, Sept. 16. Station and advertising personnel will compete. Defending champs include: John Facenda, news-sports; Ed Harvey, talent; Frank Chirkinian, a director, station staff.

Younger members of the family will be happy to learn that Kirk the Story-teller, Nixie the Pixie and Spooky the Spider are returning to Ch. 3 beginning Saturday, Sept. 10 at 9:45 A.M., with a Davy Crockett tale. Jim Kirkconnell will also spin tales for youngsters during visits to Philadelphia public schools this coming term.

A new series of 30-minute films on Ch. 10 begins Sept. 12 at 11:30 P.M. The line-up includes drama, intrigue and adventure movies.

Ch. 6 has a double birthday celebration this week. Not only does the station have its eighth anniversary on Sept. 13, but it also marks the same birthday of its TV Newsreel. The unit's original cameramen, Harry Krause and Bill Lawrence, are still covering the news beat.

Robin Roberts, star Phillies pitcher, is getting ready to sit down with Ch. 10 officials to discuss plans for his off-season sports shows. It will be his third year on TV.

Ch. 3 debuts a new Wednesday film feature on Sept. 14 at 10:30 P.M. Fabian of Scotland Yard, starring Bruce Seton, takes over for The Falcon.

SPECIAL COLOR "The Skin of Our Teeth" is called by authar Thornton Wilder "a comedy obout George Antrobus, his wife and two children and their general utility maid, Lily Sabina, all of Excelsior, N. J. George Antrobus is John Doe or George Spelvin ar yau...The Antrobuses hove survived fire, flaod, pestilence, the seven-year-locusts, the ice age, the black pox and the double feature and as mony depressions . . . They have survived a thousand calamities by the skin of their teeth. Here is o tribute to their indestructibility."

The play is a kind of comic parable of human history. Its form is unarthodax—actars address osides to the audience, scenery sametimes shifts for itself, episades ronge in subject matter from Cain and Abel to Atlontic City conventions. Mankind is satirized as well as praised.

When the shaw had its Broadway premiere in 1942, Fredric March played the Antrabus role; his wife, Florence Eldridge, played Mrs. Antrabus; Talluloh Bankhead was Sobina; and Florence Reed creoted the role af the Fortune Teller, which she repeats tonight.

Tonight's two-hour production was originally prepored by the Americon National Theater and Academy as part of the Solute to Fronce progrom. After its return from Poris, the show ployed Washington, Chicogo and New York. Far the occasion, George Abbott returned to acting after 21 years as a playwright and sensationolly successful producer-director of comedies.

DEBUT "Kings Row," the first in Warner's series of 39 full-hour dramas filmed for television, will alternate with two other series, "Casablanca" and "Cheyenne." Each one-hour episode will tell a complete story, "Kings Row" in a romantic vein, "Casablanca" for mystery and adventure, and "Cheyenne" with tales of the old West. Gig Young will act as host, taking viewers behind the scenes for an excursion through the sets where the dramas are actually filmed. He will also introduce the stars taking part in the three series.

The initial "Kings Row" episode introduces Dr. Parris Mitchell, recently returned to his home town from medical studies in Vienna. The small town, however, does not take kindly to Dr. Mitchell's practice of psychiatry. Their petty prejudices make it difficult for him to set up practice. Over the objections of her physician, Dr. Mitchell applies his new scientific method to a young woman who is seriously ill. "Kings Row" is derived from the late Henry Bellamann's best-seller of 15 years ago.

More Music Wanted

I would like to thank CBS-TV through TV GUIDE for giving us two wonderful musical shows. We've finally got the variety we've wanted with Stan Kenton's Music '55 and Paul Whiteman's Greatest Bands program. Here's hoping the shows stay on year-round.—Mrs. Charlotte Mulford, Huntingdon Valley, Pa.

Welk Booster

My family enjoys Lawrence Welk. Everyone is talking about this wonderful program and we hope it will continue for a long time.—Mrs. James A. Berry, Media, Pa.

No Storm Windows, Please

Advertising on TV is getting to be very boring. I am talking about storm windows. Every time you turn on TV, they're selling them.—J. C. Anders, Hatfield, Pa.

She Likes The Whitings

An article in TV GUIDE (Aug. 13) on Those Whiting Girls said this show isn't superior enough to have much of a chance of lasting. I think this show is great, and I'm hoping it doesn't go off the air. It's tops.—Teresa A. Lesko, Allentown, Pa.

Patti Page and singers: for her fans, her return to television is a happy occasion.

REVIEWS

PROGRAM OF THE WEEK

Patti Page has joined the ranks of the Nation's top thrushes on TV, differing from most of the others only in that she has committed her show to film. The result is a smooth-flowing quarter hour that has all the effortless ease of a miniature motion picture but somehow lacks the spontaneous enthusiasm of a live show.

Miss Page does three production numbers, each of a different type, and throws in the inevitable singing group —hers being appropriately tagged The Page Five Singers. This reviewer, for one, has never been able to understand why it takes five people to sing four-part harmony.

Miss Page herself, whose previous TV outing of a few seasons back was marred by her alarming tendency to consume fattening desserts, has slimmed herself to the point of svelteness for this new series. Her voice, of course, has always been more than pleasingly acceptable, and the combination now allows her to rank up there where she belongs.

For her fans (and they are legion), this show is a happy occasion. For everyone else, it affords a pleasant if not inspiring 15 minutes of background supper music.—D. J.

Ricky-tick beat: singer Alice Lon, Welk.

The Lawrence Welk Show

If you're an admirer of modern pop music, better stay away from ABC's Lawrence Welk Show. You'll only be irritated. But if you appreciate the ricky-tick beat in your music, as popularized by Guy Lombardo, Wayne King and Welk's own "champagne music," then there's much in the show to enjoy. As a matter of fact, they love Welk in Los Angeles, where he has had a local show for some time. Basically, his program is a well-produced musical variety show, featuring members of his versatile orchestra in solo or ensemble numbers.

Welk, as emcee, is rather stiff and ill at ease. He presents his singers, instrumentalists, a barbershop quartet, glee club, et al, in a melange of new and old tunes. While they're all competent performers, they're not too inspiring. But the producers back up each number with imaginative camera work and production techniques that often are the best features of the show.

The program lacks the necessary sparkle and verve to give it a chance against any really strong competition. But it has been a satisfactory summertime entry, good for a pleasant and relaxed hour of viewing.—R.S.

FINE TUNING

By Ollie Crawford

Television turns attention to football. The great fall sport is about to fall in.

This means we're getting near the end of that popular summer replacement show—baseball.

It's going to be a big year for pro football on TV. Pro football is where who pays is more important than hoorays. It's where block and tackle is what they use to carry off the loot. It may involve a lot of hard knocks but it also involves a little of Fort Knox.

In pro football, a guy may be the end, and his take-home pay may be the most.

The pro football star may not make his letter, but he makes a few numbers. He doesn't have to buck the line until they line up the bucks. His longest run is to the bank, and he never has to pass any bum checks. A good pro football player is a guy who can dodge everybody but the Income Tax Bureau.

They even call one guy "the safety man," because he has all his money in Government securities. As far as he's concerned, the pigskin is a buckskin.

This is the way a pro quarterback calls signals: "$65, $27, $40—hike!"

TV's Muscle Men

Four Ex-Athletes Are Among Nation's Most Popular Quartets

The Ames Brothers—Ed, Vic, Gene and Joe—are four big, ham-handed ex-athletes who can also sing pretty well. Well enough, anyway, to become just about the most popular male quartet in the land.

The brothers' weekly 15-minute TV show is seen on 205 stations by an estimated 20,000,000 people, who send them a weekly 49,000 fan letters. In it, the boys sing, dance, act and continued clown—a far cry from what they started out to do.

Joe, the oldest (32) and biggest (6 feet 3 inches, 214 pounds), is the only one with anything resembling an authentic musical background. He sang with the Toronto Opera Co. in 1945, before joining his brothers in a Boston night-club act. Gene was a semi-professional baseball player; Vic, a ham actor and amateur boxer; Ed, a delivery boy in a grocery store. All four (plus a fifth brother, Mac) were basketball stars. Performing as a unit, they once trimmed "The King's Best," professional court champions of Winnipeg, Ontario.

Today, the pursuits of the brothers are less varied, but fully as vigorous. In what they often refer to as "The Act," Joe sings bass and anchors the show; Gene plays stooge to Vic, the clown, and Ed sings most of the solos.

The Act, according to Vic, began when the four, together with Brother Mac and four sisters, were school kids back in Malden, Mass. They first began to harmonize while hollering for seconds around the family supper table. Later, they sang at the Malden Boys Club and at a summer camp where Brother Ed was doubling as dishwasher. It was after the family moved to Boston that The Act really turned "pro" in a Boston night club.

Ed emceed the clubs' floor show. Gene danced. Vic played a comic waiter. Joe was an offstage voice. When not otherwise occupied, they sang.

"Our aggregate income," Vic recalls, "soared to $500 a week. We naturally assumed we were ready to knock them dead in New York City."

This assumption, the brothers discovered, after they had spent six months eating sardines and soup in a one-room cold-water flat deep in the asphalt wastes of the Borough of Queens, was somewhat premature.

The brothers got a break in 1947 on "Guest Night" at a now deceased 52nd st. water hole known as Leon & Eddie's. Singing straight and sentimental ballads, they remained 10 weeks, eating regularly every time they danced through the kitchen en route to their dressing rooms.

Afterwards, they again holed up in Queens, until their second break. They were signed for two performances in a one-night stand at the Glass Hat, a popular Lexington Ave. boite. The place had a reputation for gentility, so the boys put on their most polished manners and blue serge suits. They sang sweetly—to a patter of applause. "How were we?" Ed asked the club's manager, when they came off.

"You're fired," he replied. "I want an act with some life in it!"

"Well," said Joe, long after he had stalked away, "we've still got another performance here. We might as well get it over with."

Vic brightened.

"Yes, indeed," he chortled. "And we might as well have a little fun."

Two hours later, when they danced onto the floor for their second—and valedictory—number at the Glass Hat, Ed, Gene and Joe were still wearing shiny blue suits. But Vic was wearing a suit of long woolen underwear, a battered top hat and a floor-mop wig. The quartet sang "Ol' Man River" while Vic bugged his eyes, rolled on the floor and bit his brothers' legs. The audience roared for 10 minutes—and the Ames Brothers stayed at the Glass Hat for 18 weeks.

The Act was "in." The next two years it played the top night clubs and theaters. The Act today earns at least $500,000 a year, much of it from the sales of records like "Rag Mop" (1,000,000), "Sentimental Me" (2,000,000), "The Naughty Lady From Shady Lane" (1,600,000) and "You, You, You" (1,500,000).

In style the brothers vaguely resemble the Ritz Brothers, but with muscles. They roll their eyes, jump around, and impersonate singers, comedians and dogs. On TV they also act.

The boys made their TV debut in 1949 as guests of Toast of the Town and subsequently appeared as guests with Milton Berle, Perry Como, Jackie Gleason, Kate Smith and Morton Downey. Now, tied up for 26 weeks, they're chasing Liberace's record of 227 outlets for a filmed show.

They're all married now (with nine children, in all) and they live in adjacent New Jersey villages. Off screen, the brothers are big, open-handed, friendly and proud. Vic does most of the talking (he has the loudest voice). Joe, the quiet one, can speak when he wants to—in English, French, Italian or Spanish. Joe won scholarships to the Boston Latin School and Boston University.

Their ambition: to stay on TV. They like to feel that when they go into a restaurant they don't have to dance through the kitchen and stuff their pockets with soup and sardines.

—Frank De Blois

Athletes all: between TV shows, Ames Brothers enjoy all-in-the-family tennis doubles.

'Dollar (Francs or Shilling) A Second'

Penalty, American-style: Jan Murray offers contestant choice of five holes in wall.

International Quiz Show Usually Means A Pie In The Face

In "Russian Roulette," the contestant picks up a revolver, loads one chamber, spins the cylinder, points the gun at his head and pulls the trigger. If he wins, he's a live fool; if he loses, a dead one, and good riddance.

The Russians may or may not have created Russian Roulette. But it's the French who dreamed up a TV and radio out-growth of the "game."

That's Dollar a Second—or in its original Gallic form, "Cent Francs Par Seconde." In England it's "Shilling a Second," and it bears other titles in Luxembourg, Monte Carlo, Andorra, Belgium, Switzerland, Holland, Italy, North Africa, South Africa, Alaska and Australia. But however you spell it or pronounce it, it adds up to pretty much the same thing: a pie, tart, pate, kuchen, torta, pastel—or other goo—in the kisser!

The penalties on the show follow the Russian Roulette pattern. An erring contestant is given five choices. Four are harmless. Select the fifth, however, and things—usually custard-filled—pop!

The penalties are only part of it. A contestant can continue to earn a dollar a second—and pay penalties—until a specific outside event takes place—a plane lands, a baby is born, the 50th cigar is rolled. If the event occurs before he quits, he forfeits.

The French version was created some five years ago as a radio show by Jean Pierre Bloudeau. With a glib announcer describing the action, it became a French favorite. One broadcast in Provence drew an amphitheater-jamming crowd of 16,000. Similar enthusiasm is displayed in other nations, which delights Bloudeau, who draws a royalty on his idea.

. . . Wrong guess; whipped cream flies!

England: blindfolded contestants in 'Shilling a Second' take a barefooted stroll.

The American version, presided over by comedian Jan Murray, stresses ingenious penalties. "We sit down at 8 A.M.," says Murray, "and many times it's 3 or 4 in the morning before we come up with something sensational."

Some "sensational" penalties: putting a contestant under a brimming bathtub and letting him guess which four chains don't pull the stopper. Giving a man in a ballerina's costume a choice of five keys; the wrong guess and he must walk through a crowded hotel lobby to recover his clothes.

Viewers clamor to pay these penalties. Murray claims that his office files have a backlog of 100,000 volunteers.

France: target's friend tries to yank pies from conveyor belt just before le splash!

Miss Hayes, at right, plays the eternal wife and mother; Miss Martin is the eternal temptress.

Queen Victoria Meets Peter Pan

Helen Hayes And Mary Martin Co-Star In Season's First Two-Hour Program

Helen Hayes, the regal "Victoria Regina" of stage fame, and Mary Martin, the little boy who never grew up in "Peter Pan" (last season's most loudly lauded TV "spectacular"), co-star Sunday night, Sept. 11, in Thornton Wilder's 1943 Pulitzer Prize-winning fantasy, "The Skin of Our Teeth." The program initiates NBC's new series of two-hour, multi-hued Color Spreads. Like "Peter Pan," the show is being brought to TV audiences exactly as staged on Broadway—and, earlier, in Washington, Chicago and Paris (as part of a U.S. "Salute To France.") Estimated cost of the telecast: $240,000.

George Gobel—A New Will Rogers?
Roxanne Yearns For Panelist Job

NEW YORK . . . George Gobel has been refusing offers to appear at Las Vegas gambling spots and to endorse liquor. Explains his manager, Dave O'Malley, "That's because I think George can become the Will Rogers of our era." George is making money other ways instead. He recently invested in a chain of motels in Phoenix, San Antonio and El Paso. . . . Roxanne, approaching motherhood, had to bow off Beat the Clock, but she's hoping for a behind-the-table job on a new panel show, It's the Law.

■ Why all the secrecy about the fact that those three dancing cigaret girls—in New York—are Dixie Dunbar, Floria Vestoff and Joan Fields—especially when they're so good?

■ Jackie Gleason was walking with manager Bullets Durgom in Bermuda, where there's no TV but plenty of record players, when a resident approached and asked, "Which of you is Jackie Gleason, the bandleader?" . . . Red Skelton to Conrad Hilton at the new $16,000,000 Beverly Hilton Hotel: "Is it true, Mr. Hilton, that you built all this on your GI loan?"

■ Guess everybody would like to emcee a quiz show permanently—except Sam Levenson, who's had several offers since subbing for Herb Shriner on Two for the Money. "I want to do comedy," he explains, "and a quizmaster hasn't time to be funny." Shriner feels the same way—and may cut out one set of contestants on each program this year.

■ While Red Buttons was in Paris, he and his wife were the nightly guests of the extremely hospitable French actress, Lilo, and her husband. "They were always taking us out," says Red. "We were real Parisites."

■ NBC is building Pinky Lee a $25,000 circus set at Burbank, with ponies, chimps and toothless tigers. (Pinky will be "vice president in charge of the broom.") The network is also bringing him to New York for a "spectacular." Despite his success, Pinky is as child-like as always. When we met recently for a drink, he said, "A malted for me, please, and no whipped cream—I'm driving."
